1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I in the reply filed on February 14, 2006 is acknowledged.
2. Claims 2 and 4 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.
3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.
4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kaneko-US 5,840,166. (Kaneko) (New Rejection)

Reference is made to column 3, lines 35-54 and column 10, lines 10-36 of Kaneko for the disclosure of a hydrogen storage alloy for use in an anode of an alkaline storage battery. With particular attention to the formula in line 40 of column of 3 of

Art Unit: 1745

Kaneko, where, for example, $x=.19$, $y=.1$ and $z=3.5$, and R, for example is La, L is Mg and M is Al, the claimed formula meets the claimed formula in claim 1 of applicant's claims. Also, column 10, lines 30-36 set forth carbon as a conductive material in the anode of Kaneko. The selection of the above particular materials in Kaneko would have been obvious because the same situation occurred in Merck & Co. Inc. v Biocraft Laboratories, 10 USPQ 2d, 1843, in which the court stated:

"That the '813 patent discloses a multitude of effective combinations does not render any particular formulation less obvious. This is especially true because the claimed composition is used for the identical purpose taught by the prior art."

6. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kaneko in view of JP-2001-316744. ('744) (New Rejection)

The only claimed feature not shown by Kaneko is the particular type of carbon used in the anode thereof. The '744 patent teaches the use of either acetylene black or ketjen black for use in the anode of an alkaline battery. To incorporate either the acetylene black or the ketjen black in the anode of Kaneko would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art because of the known high conductive properties of these carbon materials.

7. Applicant's arguments have all been considered but are deemed moot in view of the above new grounds of rejection.

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to John S. Maples whose telephone number is 571-
